LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

Office of Industrial Commission of Colorado,
State Capitol, Denver,
Dec. 20, 1921.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY,
THE GOVERNOR OF COLORADO,
State Capitol Building,
Denver, Colorado.

Sir: In accordance with the provisions of law creating the Industrial Commission of Colorado, we have the honor to transmit herewith the report of the acts and proceedings of the Commission for the period from December 1, 1920, to December 1, 1921, all of which is submitted for your consideration.

JOSEPH C. BELL, Chairman,

STATEMENT

The within report covers briefly the work of the Industrial Commission of Colorado during the year ending November 30th, 1921, in the administration of the Workmen's Compensation Act, the Industrial Relations Act, the State Compensation Insurance Fund, and the Colorado Minimum Wage Law.

The past year has been one of unusual activity in the various departments. This is undoubtedly the natural result of the readjustment period we are passing through. Many matters are presented for the consideration of the Commission which under ordinary conditions would not be given attention, being considered too insignificant to justify any action. Constantly changing costs, the tendency toward lower wage scales and increasing unemployment brings many inquiries regarding the provisions of the Industrial Relations Law and many claims for compensation for forgotten accidents. Changes in compensation insurance rates have greatly increased during 1921, the tendency being downward. All such rates must be approved by the Commission before becoming effective. Although handicapped by lack of help in its various departments the work of the Commission is in fairly satisfactory shape at the close of the year, though its activities have been necessarily limited in many directions contemplated by the Acts.

In compiling its annual report it has been the endeavor of the Commission to include only those matters essential and to treat them as concisely as possible.

The Commission wishes to thank its employees for their unusual loyalty and willing service and to express its appreciation of the assistance and co-operation it has received from other State Offices and Departments.

The Commission recommended to the Twenty-third General Assembly a number of changes in the Workmen's Compensation Act and the Industrial Relations Act, and also recommended that provision be made for funds necessary to make the Minimum Wage Act operative.

The recommendations as to the Industrial Relations Act were embodied in an amendatory act passed by the legislature and approved April 4th, 1921.

A bill to amend the Compensation Act in accordance with the recommendations of the Commission was defeated as the result of a fight for control of the moneys in the State Compensation Fund, the present law giving the Commission the discretion of the investment of the Fund.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION LAW

Although the Twenty-third General Assembly did not enact into law any of the amendments recommended by the Industrial Commission, many of which were important to the proper administration of the Act, and were presented as the result of the Commission's experience in administration of the Act of 1919, the Commission has been able to conduct the department with fairly satisfactory results. Many of the ambiguities of the Act have been cleared by court decisions and others are in process of adjudication.

The Act as a whole is good and, no doubt, will be improved by future legislative enactments.

The only amendment to the Act passed by the last general assembly was one requiring the State Compensation Insurance Fund to pay its expenses from its interest earnings.

POLICY FORMS

Section 22 of our Act provides that the Commission may from time to time approve and prescribe a standard or universal form, as nearly as possible, for every contract or policy of insurance, endorsement, rider, letter, or other document affecting such contract for use in insuring compensation liability. Pursuant to this Statute, a standard policy for Colorado has heretofore been adopted and is now in use by all companies writing compensation insurance, with the exception of the Travelers Insurance Company and the Aetna Life Insurance Company. These two companies deny the right of the Commission to prescribe a standard form.

In those cases where the employer has effected insurance with either of the two companies above named, the Commission has withheld approval of compensation agreements and in several cases has penalized the employer as provided by law, holding that inasmuch as the policy issued did not conform to the standard policy form adopted by the Commission that such employers were, in fact, without compensation insurance.

The District Court of the City and County of Denver in one test case brought for that purpose, has ruled that the Commission has the right to prescribe the form. This case is now being taken to the Supreme Court for final decision as to the validity of this Section of the Law. Other cases will undoubtedly follow this case and will involve the question as to whether the policy forms used by these two companies are a compliance with the Law. The Supreme Court decision on these various points will be looked forward to with more than usual interest by those interested in the Compensation Act.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION INSURANCE PREMIUM INCOME AND LOSSES, COLORADO.

As a convenient means of determining the growth of compensation insurance business in the State of Colorado since August 1, 1915, an Exhibit of "Premium Income and Losses Paid" has been prepared (See page 7), dividing the total business written by years into three groups, namely: Stock Companies, Mutual Companies and the State Compensation Insurance Fund.

The prosperity enjoyed during 1920, especially in Colorado, is demonstrated very forcibly by an increase of $469,190.43 in premiums collected for Workmen's Compensation Insurance over that of 1919, over two-fifths of which gain was experienced by the State Compensation Insurance Fund. However, it will be seen that the stock and mutual companies each shared in the increased business very substantially.

The general business depression experienced during the current year in all classes of industries, more especially that of metal mining will, it is believed, cause a noticeable decrease in the premium income for 1921. No figures are at present available for 1921 (*) as the Annual Reports of the insurance carriers are not required to be filed with the Colorado Insurance Department until after January 1, 1922. However, figures for the first eleven months' business of 1921 have been included for the State Fund, which shows a material decrease in the business handled by this Department of the Industrial Commission, regardless of the fact that many new policies have been issued during this period covering several large industries throughout the state, and the further fact that the Fund still maintains its position as the leading compensation insurance carrier in the state.

SELF INSURANCE

(See Section 29, Workmen's Compensation Act.)

The Industrial Commission of Colorado may, in its discretion, grant permission to an employer to pay compensation direct to his employees in lieu of effecting insurance covering his liability under the Workmen's Compensation Act. A number of employers have been granted Self Insurance Permits, but the scheme has not become general as very few feel able to carry their own insurance. In 1918 there were 43 permits granted; in 1919, 47; in 1920, 50 and in 1921, 53. All Self Insurance Permits have been to corporations; no individuals having applied. Self Insurance Permits are granted for the fiscal year ending July 31st, midnight, and are not granted for more than one year at a time.

The terms and conditions upon which permits are granted, are based upon the nature of the business, the number of employes, the hazard of the risk, the financial standing of the employer and the amount of its property in the state.

Some Self Insurers are required to furnish surety bonds, some deposit guaranty funds and some purchase catastrophe insurance. All Self Insurers are required to set up reserves to cover incurred losses.

The Commission holds the following indemnity bonds, guaranty funds and reserves:

Indemnity Bonds:

Surety Companies	$190,000.00
Personal Sureties	195,000.00

Since November 30, 1920, (date of Fourth Report) the Commission has denied three applications for self insurance permits, one self insurer has withdrawn its election to be subject to the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act. and one self insurer has taken out a policy with an insurance carrier.

LUMP SUM SETTLEMENTS

The theory of Compensation is, that in event of injury or death of an employee the payments shall for a definite period replace in part the loss of income.

The law does not contemplate the payment of a gross sum as in case of life or accident insurance but sections 55 and 82 of the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1919 gives to the Commission power to grant an advance payment of part or all compensation to become due when in its opinion it is for the best interests of the claimant that such an advance or lump sum be granted.

Lump sums are granted only for specific uses; such as the purchase of a business or property through which the claimant may become self supporting. The Commission requires definite information as to the use to which a lump sum is to be put, a full description of property to be purchased and evidence of clear title.

Lump sums are not granted for investment in securities nor for the purpose of depositing in banks.

The Act provides that advance payments and lump sums shall be discounted on a basis of present worth at 4% and in some cases a further deduction for the contingencies of death and remarriage.

Lump sums are sometimes ordered payable to non-residents to enable them to return to their homes abroad. In such cases a sufficient sum is ordered advanced to cover expenses to destination and the balance forwarded upon receipt of notice of arrival.

A total of 143 lump sum applications were acted upon by the Commission during 1921, as against 127 for 1920. 73 applications were granted and 70 denied during the year.

BENEFICIARIES' TRUST DEPOSITS

In many cases compensation is awarded to minors and incompetents who are not dependent on such compensation for their maintenance. In a number of such instances the Commission has ordered payments in whole or in part, to be deposited in savings accounts in the names of the beneficiaries but subject to the exclusive control of the Commission. Such savings accounts bear interest at four per cent and are made with banks under adequate bond and can only be withdrawn on written order of the Commission.

To the end of the fiscal year November 30th, 1921, there had been opened 118 such savings bank accounts, representing 54 Compensation claims and aggregating $24,962.74. Withdrawals are permitted only when the Commission is satisfied that such withdrawals are for the best interest of the beneficiaries.

STATE COMPENSATION INSURANCE FUND

The outstanding feature of the compensation insurance business during the past year has been a falling off in the volume of premiums written on account of the general business slump. Thus, the total amount of Workmen's Compensation premiums written in Colorado during the current year will undoubtedly be found to be several hundred thousand dollars less than for 1920.

The Fund has felt this depression with the result that, tho it has obtained even more than its share of new business, nevertheless, the volume of business written is considerably less than that written in 1920.

With reference to the new business written, it has been interesting to observe that much of this came from large industrial risks in and about Denver. Many employers, who were in the beginning skeptical as to the Fund's ability to remain in the compensation insurance business, are now becoming convinced of its financial strength, and of its ability to give complete protection and service at a considerable saving to them.

On July 1st of this year, a new Manual of classifications and rates for compensation insurance was put into effect with the approval of the Industrial Commission. The revision in rates, while resulting in increases in a few instances, has had the general effect of causing a reduction in rates in most classifications. The State Fund rates, under the new Manual, are 10% under the stock company rates, and a dividend of 15% has just been declared, effective January 1st, 1922, indicating that the Fund is still saving its assured 25% in the cost of their insurance.

A dividend was declared to School Districts equal to 100% of premiums earned during the year ending June 30th, 1921. This dividend is the result of adjustment of premiums on the basis of rates approved by the Industrial Commission in accordance with the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1919. Adjustment of premium was made under all policies for the full period during which such policies had been in force. This necessitated reviewing about 1,800 policy files, covering a period in many instances extending back to August 1st, 1915. The net result of this adjustment indicated a material reduction in the level of rates for School Districts, and left a surplus in this group sufficient to pay the above mentioned dividend.

A dividend was also declared to irrigation districts equal to 30% of premiums earned during the year ending June 30th, 1921.

One very important improvement has been made during the year in the handling of claim payments. This was the adoption of a cash voucher warrant, which permits the payment of compensation without requiring the voucher to be mailed to the claimant to be signed and returned before a warrant can be issued. Under the present system the voucher is attached to the warrant and the warrant may be cashed when the attached voucher is signed and the warrant properly endorsed. This has resulted, not only in the speeding up of payments to claimants, but in a considerable saving in labor, and expense for stationery and postage.

The newspapers, for the past several months, have contained many articles regarding the shortage of cash in the State Treasury, and have linked this situation with the financial condition of the Fund. The papers have also informed the public of the legal action in the nature of mandamus proceeding brought by the Industrial Commission in the District Court, to require the State Treasurer to invest the cash assets of the State Compensation Insurance Fund in accordance with the direction of the Industrial Commission.

Inasmuch as some of the newspaper comment has been misleading, it seems advisable to briefly describe the situation.

Section 123 of the Compensation Act says:

"The Commission is hereby vested with full power, authority and jurisdiction over the State Compensation Insurance Fund and may do and perform any and all things, whether herein specifically designated or in addition thereto, which are necessary or convenient in the exercise of any power, authority or jurisdiction over said Fund in the administration thereof under the provisions of this Act, as fully and completely as the governing body of a private insurance company might or could do, subject however, to all the provisions of this Act."

Section 140 and Section 141 are as follows:

"The State Treasurer shall be the custodian of the State Compensation Insurance Fund and all disbursements therefrom shall be paid by him upon warrants of the State Auditor upon vouchers issued by the Commission and the State Auditor is hereby authorized and directed to draw warrants upon the State Compensation Insurance Fund for payment thereof, upon order of the Commission."

"The Commission shall in writing authorize and direct the State Treasurer to invest any portion of the State Compensation Insurance Fund which in the judgment of the Commission is not needed for immediate use. Said Fund, including its surplus and reserves or any portion thereof, may be invested in any warrants or bonds of the State of Colorado or of the United States of America at market price, as may be determined by the Commission. All interest earned upon such portion or portions of the Fund as may be deposited or invested shall be collected by the State Treasurer and placed to the credit of such Fund, provided, however, that none of the funds belonging to the State Compensation Insurance Fund shall be used for any other purpose whatsoever save those of said Fund. Upon the direction of the Commission, with the approval of the State Auditing Board, the State Treasurer shall sell or dispose of such portion of the investments of said Fund at market price, as he may be directed."

The investment of Funds of a compensation insurance company should be made with two main purposes in view:

First: To keep its funds invested in high class securities which present the very greatest possible degree of safety. Practically each State in the Union has laws limiting the investments of insurance companies. The Workmen's Compensation Act of Colorado, under section 141 above, has limited the investment of the funds of the State Compensation Insurance Fund to certain definitely prescribed securities.

Second: To obtain the greatest possible return on its total assets by investing in marketable securities authorized by law up to the limit consistent with keeping a reasonable cash balance for current needs.

In accordance with its duties as administrator of the Fund and acting as the governing body of an insurance company (the State Fund is to all intents and purposes an insurance company), the Industrial Commission authorized and directed the State Treasurer on January 19th, 1921, to invest the sum of \$100,000 then in the Fund and available for investment, in United States Government 4th Liberty Loan $4\frac{1}{4}\%$ bonds; they again on May 9th, 1921, authorized and directed the State Treasurer to invest the further sum of \$100,000 then in the Fund and available for investment, in United States Government 4th Liberty Loan $4\frac{1}{4}\%$ bonds.

Looking at this situation from the standpoint of the earning capacity of the assets of the Fund as an insurance carrier: the market price of 4th $4\frac{1}{4}\%$ Liberty Bonds, on January 20th, 1921, was \$88.56. The price of 4th $4\frac{1}{4}\%$ Liberty Bonds on May 10th, 1921, was \$87.36. These bonds if purchased at the above dates would net the Fund 5.15% and 5.38% respectively, covering the period ending October 15th, 1938, a matter of more than seventeen years. At the time these investments were ordered every one interested in finance knew that Liberty Bonds were on the bargain counter and that there was no telling how long they would remain there. Not only that, but there was no other authorized investment which could be made with the cash assets of the Fund that could be compared with Liberty Bonds, both as to income yield and soundness of investment.

These two orders for the investment in Liberty Bonds have been absolutely ignored by the State Treasurer. The Treasurer took the position that the Commission had no authority to direct the investment of the State Compensation Insurance Fund and that said Fund was under his exclusive control.

This resulted in the bringing of mandamus proceedings by the Industrial Commission to determine whether the State Treasurer was legally bound to obey the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act in his capacity as custodian of the State Compensation Insurance Fund. District Judge Butler has sustained the Commission and the case is now in the Supreme Court for final determination.

The question at issue is fundamental, as to whether the Industrial Commission or the State Treasurer should be permitted to administer the investments of the State Compensation Insurance Fund. The events of the past year have at least determined that the Industrial Commission is the body which has an intelligent conception of the duties of administering the finances of the Fund.

In his answer to the alternative writ requiring him to invest as directed by the Industrial Commission, the State Treasurer set up the fact that he had on or about the 25th day of June, 1921, invested \$250,000 in State Warrants of the State of Colorado at a price to net 6% interest. As a matter of fact the investment was made in Certificates of indebtedness issued in payments on contracts for the construction of the State Office Building. This answer was stricken by the Court as being irrelevant to the point at issue, but it does illustrate the inability of the State Treasurer to properly invest the assets of the State Compensation Insurance Fund. These Certificates of indebtedness are not authorized as investments by Section 141 of the Compensation Act (incidentally they have not been accepted by the Industrial Commission). Furthermore, they are short time investments. In the meantime the market price of the \$200,000 of Liberty Bonds above mentioned has increased more than \$21,500. Fourth 4 $\frac{1}{4}$ % Liberty Bonds now earn less than 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ % and the tendency of the bond market is upward.

We believe that this situation speaks for itself and while we are hopeful of obtaining a favorable decision from the Supreme Court, we feel that in case the decision should be against us, the policyholders of the Fund are entitled to legislation which will very definitely prevent the State Compensation Insurance Fund from being considered in any way as part of the funds of the State or in any other light than as the funds of an insurance company to be invested at all times with the sole purpose of obtaining the greatest income for the policyholders consistent with authorized legal investments.

Since April 1st, 1921, the State Compensation Insurance Fund, has been on a self-supporting basis, paying salaries and other expenses from the interest earned on investments. The assets of the Fund must, therefore, be made to earn the greatest possible income in order to meet the expenses of the Fund and also the obligations under long standing claims, such as permanent total disability cases, the reserve for which is computed on the basis of the present value of the outstanding payments.

under "Disbursements," of $13,043.81, represents a period of eight months. This item for the full year should represent less than 7% of the premiums written, which is a very low expense ratio when compared with the expense ratio of the stock companies, which average 35% to 40%.

"Dividends Paid to Policyholders." This item of $74,367.92 indicates a very real saving which the Fund is making to its assured.

"Total Admitted Assets" and "Surplus Over All Liabilities." Attention is called to these two items which represent the real strength of the Fund. The rapid growth of the assets and surplus as shown in the comparison on the next page is graphic evidence of the success of the Fund.

This dividend was the first declared to public employers since the Compensation Act went into effect and covered a period of three years. At that time public premiums were written at a flat rate of 1%, which made the dividend apportionment larger than would have been the case if premiums were written as at present at rates based upon the various hazards of employment. The present method became effective May 1, 1919, in accordance with the provisions of the Compensation Act of 1919.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION— CLAIM DEPARTMENT

The Claim Department is charged with the detail work required in administering the Compensation Law of Colorado; as such it receives and files all reports required by the Commission, including first reports of accidents, supplemental reports, physician's reports, agreements relating to compensation, receipts for compensation payments, claims filed for compensation, final receipts for compensation, and conducts all hearings relating to compensation claims or agreements as are required by law.

Hearings upon claims are conducted by a Referee, whose decision is final unless a review is sought by either party, in which case the Commission reviews the entire record and in its discretion may take or order the taking of additional testimony, and may either affirm the finding and award of the Referee or may enter a new finding and award affirming or reversing the finding and award of the Referee in whole or in part.

The Commission may also upon its own motion, on the ground of error, mistake or change in conditions, review any award, and on such review may make an award ending, diminishing, maintaining or increasing the compensation previously awarded.

A comparison of the tabulated statement of the accidents, claims, agreements and awards handled by the Department, and amount of compensation awarded and being paid during the year beginning December 1, 1920, and ending December 1, 1921, which follows below, is instructive as to the volume of business handled by the Department.

Accidents	14,279	13,904
Claims	4,179	4,025
Agreements Approved	3,692	3,382
Referee's Awards	826	1,143
Commission Awards	268	351
Compensation Awarded	$461,245.28	$433,551.06

Attention is also directed to the fact that 27 awards were entered during the year in claims where it appears that the employer was not carrying insurance as required by law. The increasing number of such claims indicates the necessity of an effort being made to require a better observance of the law as to carrying compensation insurance.

A detailed statement prepared by the Statistician covering the work of this Department will be found beginning on page 115 of this report.

DECISIONS OF INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION CLAIM DEPARTMENT

Commencing on Page 25 will be found a digest of all cases, alphabetically arranged, which have been decided by the Commission from December 1, 1920, to December 1, 1921, and which includes all cases which were appealed from the Commission to the Courts and which were decided by either the District or Supreme Court during the same period of time. Those decisions which involve questions of law or rulings upon the construction of the law, as well as applications for lump sum settlements, are indexed under the headings given below. Routine cases not involving any particular question are not indexed. Each case as digested has been given a consecutive number for the purpose of this report only, and the references under the various headings refer to the index number.

STATISTICS—WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION DEPARTMENT

A very slight decrease in the number of accident reports filed with the Commission during the year is to be noted in the Statistical Table covering this department on page 117. Considering the complete inactivity of many firms and corporations, the reduced working forces and curtailment of production of others, this decrease of only 375 accidents over the previous year would indicate a gradual increase in the volume of work to be handled by the Statistical Department. This increase will continue for a number of years before the first cases or claims will be fully compensated and closed up, on account of Section 84 of the Workmen's Compensation Law of 1919, which provides that a claimant may file a claim for further disability at any time within five years from the date of his accident; and by the further fact that payments on fatal or death claims, permanent total, permanent partial and specific injury claims extend over an indefinite period of years.

A decrease of 28 fatal accidents as compared with 1920 is to be noted, due to the fact that no serious mine disasters or explosions accompanied with any great loss of life occurred during the 12 months' period covered. This decreased death ratio by accident is also due in part to the suspension of work in many of the metal mines of this state as compared with recent years' operations.

A marked increase of injuries which became infected, or so-called "Blood Poison," is shown, due, no doubt, to negligence on the part of injured employees not seeking medical treatment immediately after the occurrence of the accident. Where possible, suitable "First Aid" kits or outfits should be maintained by the employers in convenient places to guard against this seemingly growing evil of neglecting minor injuries until blood poison becomes evident in the wound.

Injuries to female employees are diminished by 43, a total of only 141 such accidents having been reported, which is only $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent of all accidents recorded with the Commission during the year.

Compensation awards entered by the Industrial Commission and Referees have been tabulated into several groups on page 118. A total of 4,905 such awards, where the payment of Workmen's Compensation benefits was involved, have been entered since this law first became effective on August 1, 1915, 1,494 of which were handled in 1921, as compared to 1,094 in 1920. The 1915 and 1917 Acts made no provision for a Referee, hence no compensation awards are shown as being entered by the Referees during 1915-16, 1917, 1918 and the first five months of 1919.

Only 138 Petitions for Rehearing, representing 12 per cent of all awards entered by the Referees for 1921, were filed with the Commission. Permission was granted for a review or rehearing of the evidence in only 44 cases, or 3.8 per cent of the total of 1,143 Referee Awards entered during the year.

More complete and detailed statistical information is now being compiled by means of the Hollerith Tabulating System, a part of which equipment has been installed and now in use. The data contained in all previous accident reports filed with the Commission since the inception of the Workmen's Compensation Law is being prepared for tabulation, as at present it is of little use or value in arriving at definite conclusions as to accident prevention measures, or experience ratings for premiums to be charged for compensation insurance. This work has been seriously handicapped by a lack of clerical assistance, and it is hoped that the Commission will be able to assign an additional clerk to this department in order that this important work may be completed at the earliest possible date and the information thus compiled printed in a separate report, or included in the next Annual Report of the Industrial Commission.

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS LAW

At the time of the last preceding report there was pending in the Supreme Court of Colorado a case wherein was attacked the validity and constitutionality of the provisions of the Industrial Commission Law giving the Commission jurisdiction over disputes between employer and employees as to wages and hours. This case has been decided and the Law has been upheld by the Supreme Court of this State.

Since our last report the 23rd General Assembly materially amended among others, Sections 29-30-31-32-33 of the Industrial Commission Law which are the sections giving the Commission jurisdiction over industrial or labor disputes. Particular attention is called to Section 32, the provisions of which are new and at first reading seem drastic, but when it is realized that the mandatory writ therein provided for simply compels obedience to the Law and that after hearing and final award by the Commission the writ spends its force, legitimate objection cannot be voiced thereto, as the most radical adherents of either side of the industrial struggle publicly, at least, admit that the Law must be obeyed. The amendments became effective April 4, 1921, and the law abiding spirit of the citizens of Colorado is so well grounded that only once has such a writ been applied for and that in the case of the controversy between the Oakdale Coal Company and its employees at the Oakview Mine. The Commission issued an order requiring the parties to restore conditions and maintain them in statu quo. Upon the miners, under the influence of officers of the U. M. W. of A., failing to abide such order, a mandatory writ was issued by the District Court of the Third Judicial District and served upon a large number of employees and upon officers of said Union. The provisions of the writ were obeyed by both employer and employees.

SUMMARY OF INDUSTRIAL CASES

The following is a list of the cases handled by the Commission during the year with an epitomized statement of facts relating thereto:

Case No. 451. Typographical Union No. 175 vs. Employers. Pueblo. October 21, 1921. Number of men, 50. Number of employers, 6. Cause of controversy, demand for increase in wages. Settlement, voluntary arbitration.

Case No. 452. Typographical Union No. 49 vs. Employers. November 22, 1921. Number of men, 550. Number of Employers, 5. Cause of controversy, demand increase in wages. Settlement by International Arbitration Board at Indianapolis.

Case No. 453. Photo Engravers No. 18 vs. Employers. Denver. November 29, 1920. Cause of controversy, demand for increase in wages. Settlement, mutual agreement.

Case No. 454. Stereotypers and Electrotypers No. 13 vs. Employers. November 29, 1920. Number of men, 45. Number of employers, 5. Cause of controversy, demand for increase in wages. Settlement, by hearing and award of Commission, in which both sides agreed to abide by decision before hearing.

Case No. 455. Typographical Union No. 434 vs. Employers. Trinidad. Number of men, 11. Number of employers, 4. Cause of controversy, demand for increase in wages. Settlement, mutual agreement.

Case No. 456. Lathers Union vs. Employers. Pueblo. November 30, 1920. Cause of controversy, demand for increase in wages. Settlement, mutual agreement.

Case No. 460. International Moulders Union of North America vs. Employers. Denver. December 27, 1920. Cause of controversy, demand for increase in wages. Hearing and award by Commission not accepted by either party. At hearing evidence introduced indicated violation of Industrial law by C. S. Card and Co., transcript of such evidence was submitted to Attorney General with request to enforce law. Suits were brought by the Attorney General thereon. Strike.

Case No. 461. Nuckolls Packing Company, Pueblo, vs. Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America. Number of men, 115. Number of employers, 1. Cause of controversy, increase in the basic workday from an eight hour day to a nine hour day. No notice given to Commission. Union members in plant refused to accept change in working conditions and notified this Commission. Majority of Commission visited Pueblo and attempted to settle controversy by calling attention of the employers to the law and failed. The matter was presented to the District Attorney of Pueblo and also to the Attorney General. Hearing was held and Commission found that no evidence was introduced justifying proposed changes. After several weeks the employers and the representatives of the employees at a conference in which a member of this Commission was present, came to a satisfactory agreement. The employer going back to the basic eight hour work day.

Case No. 462. Colorado Master Plumbers Association, vs. Employees. Number of employees, 149. Number of employers, 112. Notice of the expiration of contract December 31, 1920. This case was merged with the Building Crafts of Denver, heard on March 14, 1921. See Case No. 553.

Case No. 463. Denver Rock Drill Company vs. Employees. Denver, January 4, 1921. Number of employers, 1. Number of employees, 400. Information received at this office that notice of reduction was to go into effect the following Monday after same was posted. Commission immediately got in touch with president of company, calling his attention to thirty day notice clause and he immediately changed his notice to make the effective date of the reduction thirty days later, notifying the Commission in writing and with a copy of notice, therefore complying with the law. The reduction was accepted by employees.

The following cases were consolidated by the Commission and hearings held February 15, 1921. The Commission found that fifty cents (50c) a day reduction was fair, and so awarded. The employers and employees acquiesced in decision without a protest, to-wit:

Case No. 464. Atlas Mining Company, January 6, 1921, 75 employees.

Case No. 465. Downtown Mines Company, Leadville, Colorado, January 6, 1921, 80 employees.

Case No. 596. Brotherhood of Bookbinders and Bindery Women vs. Employers of Book and Job Printing Offices. Denver. March 17, 1921. 100 employees. 13 employers. Notice of new wage scale and reduction of week's work from forty-eight to forty-four hours. (See Case No. 558.)

Case No. 597. Typographical Union No. 567 vs. Employers. Loveland. 9 employees, 3 employers. Case terminated by Commission. (See Case No. 558.)

Case No. 598. Denver Fire Clay Company vs. Employees. Denver. March 16, 1921. Notice of reduction in wages. After investigation Commission set case for hearing on April 8. Appearance was made by representatives of employers and employees, who stated that there had been a conference held in which both parties to the controversy had decided that they could settle their differences when the manager returned to the city, but if they failed to reach a satisfactory settlement that both parties would ask this Commission to hold a hearing and they would abide by the decision. The case was continued, and it is presumed settled satisfactorily.

Case No. 599. Typographical Union No. 434 vs. Employers. Trinidad. March 18, 1921. Notice of a change in hours for a week's work from forty-eight to forty-four hours. Case terminated by Commission. (See Case No. 558.)

Case No. 600. Typographical Union 227 vs. Employers. Cripple Creek. 2 employees. 1 employer. Notice of change in hours from eight hours a day to seven hours and twenty minutes a day. Upon investigation it was found that there was a mistake in the notice and that the employees wanted a forty-four hour week or less. Commission terminated jurisdiction. (See Case No. 558.)

Case No. 601. Intermountain Light, Heat & Power Company vs. Employees. La Junta. March 19, 1921. Notice of reduction in wages. Investigated by Commission. Satisfactory settlement reached.

Case No. 602. Seven Lakes Ditch Company vs. Employees. Loveland. March 19, 1921. Complaint was made of reduction in wages. Upon investigation by Commission it was found that employers had finished their work and had no employees and that another company had employed the same superintendent and that said superintendent had employed some of the men that he had on the former work, but that the wages were lower, so that there was no valid complaint and case was dismissed.

Case No. 603. City of Loveland vs. Employees. Loveland. March 19, 1921. Complaint was made at this office that employees had been reduced from $5.00 per day to 40c per hour, or $3.20 per day, and that previous notice of such reduction was not given. Upon investigation by Commission it was found that the city officials had not reduced the wages of their regular employees, but at a council meeting held on March 1, 1921, the council voted that for the extra help hired on the streets thereafter they would only pay 40c an hour. They also stated that this would not apply to over three men and that it was only casual employment.

Case No. 604. American Smelting & Refining Company vs. Employees. Durango. March 21, 1921. 176 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Investigated by Commission and settled by mutual agreement.

Case No. 605. Western Electric Company vs. Employees. Denver. March 22, 1921. 80 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. On investigation by Commission it was found there was no protest by employees.

Case No. 606. Johnson Machine Company vs. Employees. Denver. March 19, 1921. 8 employees. 1 employer. Notice of a reduction in wages. No complaint from employees.

Case No. 607. Employing Plumbers vs. Employees. Colorado Springs. March 24, 1921. 52 employees. 10 employers. Notice of a reduction in wages. Settled by mutual agreement on the basis of an award made by Commission in Case No. 553.

Case No. 608. Cigar Manufacturers vs. Cigar Makers' Union No. 129. Denver. March 24, 1921. 475 employees. 2 employers. Notice of a reduction in wages. Commission set case for hearing April 19, 1921. On April 16 the Commission was presented with an agreement signed by employers and employees requesting a postponement of said hearing for sixty days, which was granted, and the case was to come on for hearing on June 20, conditions to remain the same during that time. The employees in the Cuban Cigar Factory had trouble with the foreman and a great many resigned; the employer decided to close down pending settlement, claiming that he did not have enough employees left to run his business with any satisfaction. The Solis Cigar Company laid off part of their force, claiming that the business did not warrant keeping the full force at work. The men complained to the Commission, claiming that conditions had been changed in the Solis factory. The employer in the Cuban factory also complained of the employees leaving him. The Commission decided to let the affair rest until the date of the hearing on June 20. Both sides appeared for the hearing. The employees asked the Commission to terminate jurisdiction, as they felt that if they went to a hearing that the evidence they would necessarily have to present would probably antagonize the employers and make their case more difficult to settle. The employers also asked the Commission to terminate jurisdiction, claiming that the Commission could be of no service as the employees would not accept the award and cited that on a previous date some of the international officials of the union who were at that time attending the American Federation of Labor convention in Denver had interceded for the employees and they had reached an agreement whereby the employers would select one party, the employees to select one, and the two to select a third party for the purpose of arbitration, and their decision to be binding upon both sides. When this proposition was submitted to the union for acceptance or rejection, it was almost unanimously rejected and the Commission, after said investigation, found that the controversy between the parties hereto was not a matter of public interest, and therefore terminated jurisdiction. The controversy was finally settled on or about June 29 and the men returned to work on July 5, receiving a reduction in wages of approximately $1.00 per thousand cigars.

Case No. 609. Bindery Women's Union No. 58 vs. Employers. Book and Job Printing Offices. Denver. March 25, 1921. 180 employees. 25 employers. Notice of a reduction in hours. (See Case No. 558.)

Case No. 610. Building Laborers vs. Allison Stocker. Denver. March 14, 1921. Reduction in wages put into effect without notice to the Commission; complaint was made by employees and Commission assumed jurisdiction. Set case for hearing and award was made by Commission that wages should not have been reduced, and the case was submitted to the Attorney General for prosecution.

Case No. 611. Longmont Farmers Milling & Elevator Company vs. Employees. Longmont. March 28, 1921. 93 employees. 15 plants. Notice of reduction in wages. Investigated by Commission. No protest from employees.

Case No. 642. Master Plumbers Association vs. Plumbers and Steam Fitters Union. Pueblo. April 26, 1921. 25 employees. 7 employers. Notice of reduction in wages. Upon investigation by Commission the employers claimed that they did not have business enough in sight to warrant a hearing by the Commission and the employees were bound that they would not grant any reduction, and at the expiration of the thirty-day notice, the men went on strike, which was but a few days before the flood in Pueblo. When the flood came on, the men immediately returned to work and the employers paid the old scale, saying they would take the matter of a reduction in wages up at a later date.

Case No. 643. Stevens-Barr Timber & Lumber Company vs. Employees. Fraser. April 4, 1921. Complaint was made at this office that a reduction in wages was put into effect and there was no notice given to the Commission. Upon investigation it was found that the plant was closed and there were no employees with the exception of a watchman.

Case No. 644. Book Cliff Coal Company vs. Employees. Grand Junction. May 7, 1921. 8 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. After investigation by Commission and receiving satisfactory information, the case was terminated.

Case No. 648. United States Gypsum Company vs. Employees. Loveland. May 16, 1921. 27 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Employees were notified but did not make any complaint.

Case No. 649. Empire Coal Company vs. Local Union No. 59 of the United Mine Workers of America. Aguilar. May 17, 1921. 85 employees. 1 employer. Complaint was made at this office that employees had gone on strike. Commission sent investigator to Aguilar and he was successful in getting the men to call a meeting, and upon investigation we found that two men who had been given new place in mine had complained that they were not able to make wages, and that upon making said complaint to the union they went out on strike to force the company to either give the men a different place to work or to make up in pay what they lost on account of what they claimed to be a narrow room neck. The investigator was successful in getting the men to return to work with the promise that he would recommend to the Commission upon his return that a hearing be held and its findings and award entered. The Commission set the case for hearing and the evidence was so conflicting that the State Coal Mine Inspector was asked by members of the Commission to go to the mine and measure the room neck and upon his report the Commission made its award, which was accepted by both employer and employees.

Case No. 650. Bridge and Iron Workers vs. Master Builders. Denver. May 23, 1921. This case arose out of a former hearing of the building trades. During that hearing the committee from the union and the committee from the employers entered into an agreement and presented same to the Commission, in which there was to be a reduction in wages from $9.25 per day to $8.00 per day. Some time after this settlement the officers of the union again took the matter up with the employers, calling their attention to their reduction being more in proportion to the reductions made with other crafts. The employers admitted same and by mutual agreement increased their wage 25c per day.

Case No. 651. Don Hogan vs. Employees. Denver. May 24, 1921. 20 employees. 1 employer. Notice of a reduction in wages. Upon investigation by Commission it was found that there was no protest by employees.

Case No. 652. Calumet Coal Mining Company vs. Employees. Durango. May 18, 1921. 70 employees. 1 employer. Members of the Commission were in Durango on Commission business when they were notified that the men at this mine had gone on strike. Upon investigation it was found that the men went on strike because they claimed the company had sold coal to the smelter owned and operated by the American Smelting & Refining Company, and as there was a strike on at the coal mine owned by the American Smelting & Refining Company, the men were unwilling to mine coal for the benefit of this company, which they claimed had been unfair to members of its organization. The Commission was unable to get the men to return to work and the matter was submitted to the District Attorney for prosecution. Members of the Commission returned to Denver, leaving the secretary of the Commission, who is an attorney, at Durango for the purpose of assisting the District Attorney. The officials of the union were called into a conference by the District Attorney and then proceeded to the mine, talked to the employees, and the strike was called off and all the men returned to work. No court proceedings were instituted.

Case No. 653. Temple Fuel Company vs. Employees. Trinidad. May 18, 1921. 130 employees. 1 employer. Notice of termination of bonus. The company was paying a bonus of ten cents per trip on all over forty-one trips per day. There was no objection by the employees on the discontinuance of said bonus.

Case No. 654. Diamond Fire Brick Company vs. Employees. Canon City. May 20, 1921. 14 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Upon investigation it was found that the plant had been closed since January 1st, and that they were expecting to resume operations at a less wage, and that the men who were to go to work, whether former employees or new employees, were satisfied.

Case No. 655. American Smelting & Refining Company vs. Employees. Leadville. May 26, 1921. 325 employees. One employer. Notice of a reduction in wages. After investigation by Commission, an order was entered terminating jurisdiction.

Case No. 656. Building Mechanics vs. Master Builders. Greeley. May 26, 1921. Complaint was made at this office that the employers were changing conditions in relation to wages and hours from the award made by Commission at a previous date. There were other complaints made by members of the different unions, but upon investigation by Commission it was found that there was no justification for any of said complaints.

Case No. 657. Youngblood Printing Company vs. Employees. Denver. May 31, 1921. 2 employees. 1 employer. Complaint of strike without notice. Commission has no jurisdiction where there are less than four employees.

Case No. 665. Coffin Packing Company vs. Employees. Denver. June 24, 1921. Notice of reduction in wages. (See Case No. 662.)

Case No. 666. United Garment Workers of America vs. Mr. Bernard Lutz of the Colorado Garment Manufacturing Company. Colorado Springs. June 24, 1921. 22 employees. 1 employer. Complaint was that a ten per cent reduction in wages was put into effect and there was no notice given to the Commission. At a conference arranged by Commission in which the employer and all the employees were present it was found that the employees accepted said reduction voluntarily and the complaint was not justified.

Case No. 667. Radium Company of Colorado vs. Employees. Paradox Valley. June 28, 1921. 40 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. After investigation Commission terminated jurisdiction.

Case No. 668. State Highway Commission vs. Employees. Denver. June 29, 1921. Notice of reduction in wages. No protest from employees.

Case No. 669. Holmes Hardware Company vs. Employees. Pueblo. June 30, 1921. 5 to 20 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. No protest was made by employees to Commission. Information received from employer that a conference was held and that the employees would accept no reduction and that the employer decided to pay the prevailing scale until such time as he had finished the work contracted for and then close the department effected by the change rather than to have any unfriendly relations, at least temporarily.

Case No. 670. Phillip S. Smith vs. Employees. Denver. July 1, 1921. 14 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Mutual agreement was reached between employer and employees.

Case No. 671. Hebron Coal Company vs. Employees. Routt County. July 9, 1921. Complaint was made by former employee that the company had changed the day's work from eight to eleven and twelve hours. After an investigation it was found that there was no justification for complaint.

Case No. 672. Hessler Mercantile Company vs. Employees. Denver. July 11, 1921. 6 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Satisfactory agreement was reached and also signed by all employees and employer. Copy furnished to Commission.

Case No. 673. Restaurant Keepers' Association vs. Cooks and Waiters Unions. Denver. July 12, 1921. 460 employees. 24 employers. Notice of reduction in wages. Commission held hearing, refused to grant any reduction, as a reduction would be of no benefit to the patrons of restaurants. Cooks and proprietors decided to accept the award of the Commission before hearing, which made award final and binding. Waiters and waitresses did not agree to abide by the award and the restaurant keepers insisted on a reduction in their case. The employees refused to work for a few days and a compromised settlement was agreed upon, employees taking slight reduction.

Case No. 674. Great Western Sugar Company vs. Employees. Denver. July 12, 1921. Notice of reduction in wages. Settled by mutual agreement.

Case No. 675. Empire Coal Mining Company vs. Local Union, United Mine Workers of America. Aguilar. July 15, 1921. 74 employees. 1 employer. Complaint in regard to employment. Several employees were laid off when work was discontinued in the part of the mine that they had been working in. Later on there were other men laid off and the union insisted that the first men laid off should be the first re-employed, which was agreed upon by the company.

Case No. 676. Webb Pressmen vs. Denver Daily Newspapers. Denver. July 20, 1921. 50 employees. 3 employers. Notice of a new wage contract. Satisfactory settlement was reached and an increase granted employees.

Case No. 694. Burns Theater vs. Employees. Colorado Springs. August 24, 1921. 14 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages and new contract. The employer put change into effect twelve days after the notice was received by Commission. Case was set for hearing and a decrease granted, the employer to pay the old scale up to the date of the award. The employees refused to accept the award of Commission and a compromise figure was decided upon, employees receiving a smaller reduction than the award of the Commission.

Case No. 695. Nevin Candy Company vs. Employees. Denver. August 26, 1921. 40 employees. 1 employer. Notice of increase in hours. Upon investigation by Commission it was found there was no protest by employees.

Case No. 696. Colorado Fuel & Iron Company vs. Employees. Kebler. August 24, 1921. 50 employees. 1 employer. Letter was received that this mine had been closed down for several weeks and that an agreement was reached between former employees living in the camp and the employer, in which the company was to reopen the mine at a reduced scale. The force increased from day to day until a reduction was made in other Colorado Fuel & Iron Company's mines and a strike occurred in several of the mines, resulting in the men at this mine also going out on strike.

Case No. 697. Master Builders vs. Employees. Colorado Springs. August 29, 1921. Notice of reduction in wages. Case was set for hearing and Commission awarded a reduction. The employees refused to accept award of Commission and went out on strike.

Case No. 698. American Smelting & Refining Company vs. Employees. Durango. September 1, 1921. 200 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Protest was made by employees and after a meeting of business men, employers and employees, protest was withdrawn and a satisfactory agreement was reached.

Case No. 699. Typographical Union No. 175 vs. Employers of Book and Job Printing Offices. Pueblo. September 2, 1921. 18 employees. 6 employers. Notice of reduction in hours. Conference was held in Pueblo between employees and employers, the Commission being represented and a proposition was agreed upon to submit to the union. The union at first rejected said proposition, but at a later meeting reconsidered their action and accepted the proposition agreed upon at the conference.

Case No. 700. Golden Cycle Mining Company vs. Employees. Colorado Springs. September 3, 1921. 16 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Commission investigated and found no protest by employees.

Case No. 701. Master Builders vs. Employees. Grand Junction and Mesa County. September 8, 1921. 175 employees. 7 employers. Notice of reduction in wages. Commission set case for hearing and granted a reduction.

Case No. 702. City of Fort Morgan vs. Employees. Fort Morgan. September 9, 1921. Notice of reduction in wages. No protest by employees.

Case No. 703. Hardesty Manufacturing Company vs. Employees. September 12, 1921. 70 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. After investigation it was found there was no protest by employees.

Case No. 704. Keystone Mining Company vs. Employees. Colorado Springs. September 15, 1921. 80 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Case was set for hearing at the County Court House in Colorado Springs, and a continuance asked for by a representative of the employer, which was granted by the Commission until a later date, after which the employer wrote the Commission and withdrew his application for reduction.

Case No. 705. Pikes Peak Consolidated Fuel Company vs. Employees. Colorado Springs. September 15, 1921. 90 employees. 1 employer. See Case No. 704, as both mines are owned and operated by the same company.

Case No. 706. Colorado Fuel & Iron Company vs. Employees in several of its mines in Trinidad and Walsenburg districts. September 1, 1921. 2,274 employees. 1 employer. The company entered into an agreement with its employees in several of its mines whereby the employees agreed, by signing petitions, and through their representative under their Industrial Representation Plan, to a reduction in wages to the 1917-1919 scale. There was no notice served upon the Commission. A controversy arose and a great many of the employees went out on strike. Upon this information, the Commission started investigation by sending a representative into the coal fields, and after receiving information from said representative each day for about a week the Commission assumed jurisdiction and set the case for hearing at the County Court House at Walsenburg. On September 10th the Commission issued an interlocutory order, ordering the company and the employees to return to the wages and working conditions in effect previous to September 1st until the Commission could make a thorough investigation and decision in said controversy. This order was complied with by both parties. The Commission issued its final order and decision on November 4th, which in substance said that the company had an agreement with their employees through their representatives under the Industrial Representation Plan, such award permitting the company to put into effect a reduction, and also releasing the employees to accept or reject said reduction. The company on November 17th, after posting notices at the mines affected by said award, did put into effect the wage scale in effect in 1917 to 1919. A strike was called in said mines and in all other mines owned and operated by the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company where there was no reduction put into effect, and at the time of printing this report there was approximately a normal force of men back to work at the reduced scale in the Walsenburg and Trinidad districts, and the mines in Crested Butte and Canon City had been closed down by the company after the employees were on strike three days, complying with their Industrial Plan whereby an employee remaining away from work three consecutive days is considered automatically not to be an employee of the company.

Case No. 707. Victor-American Fuel Company vs. District No. 15 of the United Mine Workers of America. Denver. September 11, 1921. Notice of reduction in wages. This notice was contingent upon the outcome of the C. F. & I. controversy, and was set down for hearing. At said hearing the operators and the president of the miners' union of this district appeared and requested the Commission for a continuance, which request was granted.

Case No. 708. Frederick Printing Company vs. Employees. Denver. September 17, 1921. 2 employees. 1 employer. Protest was entered to the effect that employer had made a change in the hours. After investigation by Commission it was found that there were only two employees, in which case the Commission had no jurisdiction.

Case No. 709. Garfield Mine Company vs. Employees. Palisade. September 17, 1921. 17 employees. 1 employer. Protest was entered by the employees against a reduction in wages without notice. The Commission called a committee of the employees and the employer together in conference in Grand Junction, and was successful in reaching an agreement satisfactory to both employer and employees.

Case No. 710. Hallack & Howard Lumber Company vs. Employees. Denver. September 19, 1921. 75 employees. 1 employer. Protest was entered by representative of the employees that company had changed from eight hours to nine hours a day, no notice being given to the Commission, and that petition was also filed by attorney representing employees requesting the Commission to take jurisdiction. The Commission held a hearing and awarded the employees time and one-half for all time worked in excess of eight hours.

Case No. 711. Libby, McNeil & Libby vs. Employees. La Junta. September 20, 1921. Notice of reduction in wages. Settled by mutual agreement.

Case No. 712. Gladstone Mine vs. Employees. Buena Vista. September 20, 1921. Notice of reduction in wages. By investigation it was found there was no protest by employees.

Case No. 713. Colorado Culvert & Flume Company vs. Employees. Pueblo. September 26, 1921. 14 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Settled by mutual agreement.

Case No. 714. Magnus Metal Company vs. Employees. Denver. September 29, 1921. 14 employees. 1 employer. Agreement was submitted to Commission signed by all of the employees five days before the effective date of the decrease in wages.

Case No. 715. W. D. Corley Coal Mine vs. Employees. Colorado Springs. September 26, 1921. 30 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. This notice was contingent upon cases Nos. 704 and 705, consequently the notice was considered withdrawn.

Case No. 716. American Brake Shoe & Foundry Company vs. Employees. Denver. October 3, 1921. 16 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. After investigation it was found there was no protest by employees.

Case No. 717. United States Radium Company vs. Employees. Naturita. October 3, 1921. 6 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Settled by mutual agreement.

Case No. 718. Oakdale Coal Company vs. Employees. Oakview. October 1, 1921. 200 employees. 1 employer. Protest was received from officials of the United Mine Workers of America that the employer was discriminating against members of the union and unless it stopped a strike would be called. A strike was called and approximately all the men went out on strike. The Commission set the case for hearing and entered an order for the men to return to work. The employees did not obey the order of the Commission, making it necessary to apply to the court for a mandatory writ, which was issued and with which the employees complied. After taking evidence, it was found there were only two employees involved, and although it was shown that there was some unfriendly feeling between the superintendent and the union, there was no actual discrimination, and good cause was shown for the discharge of said employees and it was so awarded.

Case No. 719. Colorado Power Company vs. Employees. Denver. October 5, 1921. 122 employees. 1 employer. Notice of a reduction in wages. After investigation by Commission, it was found there was no protest by employees.

Case No. 720. Card Iron Works vs. Employees. Denver. October 6, 1921. 5 employees. 1 employer. Notice of change in working conditions. By investigation it was found there was no protest by employees.

Case No. 721. Northwestern Fuel Company vs. Employees. Louisville. October 7, 1921. 60 employees. 1 employer. Information received that employees had gone on strike. Representative from the Commission was sent to Louisville, called employees together and found that the controversy was in regard to the change by the company of the purchasing of coal by employees, which was satisfactorily adjusted. The employees returned to work the following day.

Case No. 722. Cusack Sign Company vs. Billposters' Union No. 59. Denver. October 13, 1921. 6 employees, 1 employer. Notice of a demand for an increase in wages. By investigation and conference satisfactorily settled as agreed upon.

Case No. 723. Diamond Fire Brick Company vs. Employees. Canon City. October 11, 1921. 5 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. No protest by employees.

Case No. 724. Baker Steam Motor Car & Manufacturing Company vs. Employees. Pueblo. October 21, 1921. 33 employees. 1 employer. Mutual agreement, which all employees signed, was filed with the Commission.

Case No. 725. Building Trades Council vs. Seerie and Varnum. Denver. October 24, 1921. Protest was filed by representatives of several of the building crafts, members of the Building Trades Council, of a jurisdictional dispute on the State Office Building. The dispute was between the carpenters and the sheet metal workers, as to who would do the metal trim work. After investigation and several conferences, the Commission terminated jurisdiction.

Case No. 726. American Smelting & Refining Company vs. Employees. Globe Plant. Denver. October 29, 1921. 7 employees. 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. By investigation it was found there was no protest by employees.

Case No. 746. Midwest Tire Company vs. Employees. Arvada. November 20, 1921. Change from day to piece work.

CHANGES IN THE COST OF LIVING DENVER, COLORADO

In the original investigation no attempt was made to collect and compile budgets of local families but a family of five was adopted as a unit for measuring costs. The number in the family and the ages of the children conform very closely to those as used by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics and represents generally the average existing family in the United States. The requirements of this family were determined from a careful study of the then existing family budgets as used by other agencies in similar investigations and serves more as a convenient means of measurement than as a fair definition of the cost of living. This budget is not intended, nor should it be taken, as an ideal budget for it does not include many comforts which should be included in an ideal American Standard of living.

As stated in former reports, various budget levels or standards of living have been adopted by investigating boards throughout the country, the three principal ones being distinguished as 1, "The Pauper or Poverty Level"; 2, "The Minimum or Subsistence Level"; and 3, "The Minimum or Comfort Level." The computations covered by this investigation are on a basis of the "Minimum or Subsistence Level," and should not be confused or compared with percentages or totals which are based upon the "Minimum or Comfort Level" investigations.

Tables based upon fluctuations in wholesale prices, (the index numbers furnished by Bradstreet or Dun), or the index numbers of retail food prices or other commodities taken by themselves, are not comparable with results obtained in this report, nor do they offer a reliable indication of changes in the cost of living. It is believed the only accurate method of measuring the various changes in the total cost of living is one which is based on retail prices, weighted according to the actual quality and quantity consumption or usage adopted in the family budget.

While it is conceded that standards of living have, in many instances, changed during and since the war, it should also be recognized that any comparison of changes in the cost of living from one date to another should be based upon identical lists and proportions at all times. The budget standard originally adopted as of January 1, 1914, has been followed in its entirety, no change of any kind having been made in the lists, quantities or qualities used.

The index level has been maintained by totaling the current prices of the individual items composing the budget, the retail prices of which have been furnished by the same firms at weekly or monthly intervals since the investigation was first undertaken. Such changes in commodity prices as have occurred during the year ending December 1, 1921, are shown by a continuation in the statistical tables and charts hereto appended. These tables and charts are to be used in arriving at the percentage increase or decrease between given dates.

The "Comparative Yearly Totals," Table I, are more readily interpreted by graphic Chart "A," which shows the proportionate increase at semi-annual periods, while Chart "B" covers the same purpose by months on an "Index Number" basis. Food is included in Chart "B" to more readily show the relative increase of this item to the total of all items combined.

The ordinary "Arithmetic" scale has been used in preparing these graphic charts in preference to the "Logarithmic" or "Ratio" method. The "Arithmetic" scale is clearly one of fixed relations between the numbers composing it, while the "Logarithmic" or "Ratio" scale, on the contrary, has constantly changing relations between the numbers composing it, which make a thorough interpretation or understanding of changing levels rather difficult to those not familiar with this plan.

The various subdivisions of the yearly totals as shown in Table I are to be noted under their several headings in Table II. "Comparative Yearly Totals—Including Items." Using January 1, 1914, as an "Index Number of 100," the monthly variations can be more easily followed under Column X, Table II, and also in graphic Chart "B." By reference to these it will be found that the highest point reached for the total cost of living is shown during June-July, 1920, since which date there has been a steady decline in foods, clothing, fuel, etc., until June 1, 1921, when the index number for the total cost of living stood at 54.7 per cent above pre-war levels of 1914. A slight upward trend is to be observed from June 1, 1921, to December 1, 1921, the end of our fiscal year, when 56.4 per cent is registered.

It is to be noted that the prices of those items which were first to rise were also the first to fall. While the cost of living has declined somewhat, the marked wholesale price reduction appears to have benefited the retail stores rather than the consuming public in general.

Real estate operators, with but few exceptions, are of the opinion that the general tendency of rents is to remain at their present level for several years, such new dwellings and apartments as are erected being only sufficient in number to accommodate the fast growing population of Denver.

Generally speaking, it is believed from present economic indications, that the index level of 56.4 per cent over pre-war conditions will prevail, with slight fluctuations, for some months.

COLORADO MINIMUM WAGE LAW FOR WOMEN AND MINORS

In its Fourth Report, covering the year ending November 30, 1920, the Industrial Commission recommended to the Legislature that an adequate appropriation be made to permit the Commission to put the Minimum Wage Law into effective operation. The Act as passed provided a secretary, but made no provision for other employes or expenses and no provision has since been made, although the recommendations of the Commission were approved by the Budget Commissioner. The department will be unable to do any effective work until proper provision is made for its necessary expenses.

The Minimum Wage Secretary has been used effectively in work of the Commission which otherwise would have required the employment of additional help.
